Article Title: ‘Where do you switch it on?’ A Case Study of the Enhancement and Transformation of University Lecturers’ Teaching Practices with Digital Technologies

Authors: Grace Oakley and Mark Pegrum

Bibliographic Details: Education Research and Perspectives, Volume 41 (Special Section on Technology in Higher Education), 2014, pp. 42-72.

Date of Retraction: 13th June, 2014

The Editor in Chief and the authors have agreed to retract this article. It has come to light since the article was published that three of the study participants may have differed significantly from others in terms of their positionality at the time that the research was conducted. Given that the conclusions were drawn on the basis of the aggregated data, this poses a threat to the overall trustworthiness of the study. The paper has thus been retracted in full.

Retractions are necessary at times to maintain the rigour and integrity of the scholarly research record. The authors had no intention to publish conclusions based on compromised data, and demonstrated a strong commitment to research integrity in addressing this issue. The Journal applauds the researchers for prioritising the need to ensure the credibility of their findings over any other consideration.

The Journal apologises to its readers for any inconvenience.
